

stupid with their midnight potations. They were noisy, and the car soon steamed with the fumes of a poor quality of liquor. Would the conductor stop the car and say to these gentlemen: "Gentlemen, I guess you will have to get out and wait for the next car?" I asked. On the contrary, he seemed to consider their riding quite a thing of course.

And I found myself querying if there might not be a car on the line, with this legend upon it:

"DRUNKEN MEN PERMITTED IN THIS CAR."

I had never seen a car so labelled, and of course there was none. "SUN" thought, "a drunken man is permitted to go in the car, it follows that he is black is more offensive than that of a drunken man."

WIDE AWAKES, ATTEND!

Wide Awakes will attend at the Hall, THIS (Monday) EVENING, at 8 o'clock, precisely in uniform for the EXCURSION TO JAMESTOWN, in steamer Perry.

Wide Awakes will receive tickets FREE OF EXPENSE at that time.

BE PUNCTUAL!

Per order,
B. R. HAZARD, Jr., Pres't.

THE GREAT UPRISING.

The voice of the people is now reverberating through the land from its remotest bounds. In tones of thunder the indignation of the nation is made manifest, as well as the strong purpose to purify the government, and have it once more administered in accordance with the doctrines, and practices of the fathers of the Republic.

But startling and terrible to invaders, as is this manifestation of the peoples will, it is, in comparison with the coming echoes of November, like the low mutterings from the distant, blackened cloud rising from the horizon, which precedes the furious tempest. The results, also will be similar; for the nation has determined in November to put an end at the same time to political corruption, and the damnation of the hideous tyrant—the slave power.

It is interesting to observe the manner in which the coming rising of the people is viewed, by different classes. The Democrat sniffs the battle from afar. His long, intimate acquaintance with public opinion has qualified him to judge well of "coming events," which "cast their shadow before." For months past, he has seen the hand-writing on the wall. He knows that Maine in reality settled the question, and his downcast broken look, as he perceives the last of fond hopes swept away, is melancholy enough. Having had heretofore ample experience in that line ourselves, we can fully sympathize with this class in their day of sorrow.

Another class of observers is the most difficult to describe, and more difficult yet to understand. They see the coming storm, but appear to not fully comprehend its power, or mission. Not like the Democracy in this respect, they take a side look, whereas the former look it squarely in front, understand it, and prepare accordingly. They appear to have an idea, a portion of them at least, that the ringing of bells, the blowing of horns, and clattering of ancient, somewhat delapidated tin ware, will be efficacious in arresting what is to them an imaginary evil. Many of them are striving after something, what, we confess our utter inability to learn. We assure all such, that what they profess so much to dread, is a blessing to them and to all men.

The last class to which we allude is the Republican. He views the approaching election with joy. Many a time through these long dreary years of trial, has he been tempted to exclaim, "how long?" Putting faith in the principles of freedom, in the integrity of the masses, in the intelligence of the people, he has struggled on, year after year, almost against hope. Now he sees his hour of triumph is at hand. And yet not his triumph! It is the success of honesty over political corruption; of freedom over slavery; of the friends of home for the landless, over their opponents; of free-labor over slave-labor; of those who would open the territories to poor freemen, rather than to slaves; of a tariff over free trade; in a word of right, over wrong. It is a great triumph of truth, a necessary good for our great and glorious land. So the Republican views it, and let him act accordingly. Let there be no triumphing over our brothers in the opposition, for this benefit to us much theirs as ours. This is no triumph of men, but a glorious success of principles. Let Republicans so view it, and as we fully believe, they will so act, as such a thought will prompt.

The Wide Awakes and the Police.

Newport, Oct. 26, 1860.
MR. EDITOR—
It is not often that I take any notice of what is published or said in regard to the manner in which I discharge my official duties; but a communication which you publish in this morning's paper, and which you apparently endorse by your own remarks, is so unjust, I feel it due to myself to say that having heard that the "Wide Awakes" had been invited the first night of their parade, I stated to Dr. R. H. Hazard, Jr., and other prominent members of the Association, that I would direct the Police to protect them. At every parade which they have had since, the regular night watchmen and extra men have accompanied them in their march through the streets, with positive directions from me to arrest all persons who might assault them. I am and always have been ready and prompt to defend all classes and conditions of people in the lawful enjoyment of all their legal rights, in any manner that pleased them, and I shall continue to do so, to the extent of my power. I am not generally sensitive as to what is said about me; but if it is dangerous, to say the least, to have false charges or insinuations made, when I have endeavored to afford protection from assault, and have been without application from the "Wide Awakes," I make these remarks because the charges are apparently made by some one who does not entertain any very friendly feelings toward me. WILLIAM H. HARRIS.

During Saturday we received the above letter from Mayor Cranston. Respecting the matter to which it refers, we certainly do not wish to make or endorse any unreasonable or unjust charges against His Honor, and our silence in this matter, and withholding the communication for several days, can but assure him of that fact. Yet, although we disclaim, most emphatically, any unfriendly or personal feeling towards either the Mayor or the Police, we should consider ourselves unworthy of the position which we claim to hold in the "Chair Editorial," did we not bring to public notice assaults of so criminal and ruffianly a nature, as those perpetrated on the Wide Awakes, as we most assuredly should if committed upon members of any political or social organization, however repugnant the sentiments or motives of such organization might be to our personal feelings. We should feel in duty bound to represent any apparent or real indisposition on the part of our municipal officers to protect, by all the authority which in them lies, a peaceable body of law abiding citizens.

Perhaps we have been wrong in indulging the article referred to, and thus attaching any blame to the Police; but certainly we cannot view the case in that light, nor shall we be disposed to until effective measures are taken to prevent any further occurrence of these murderous outrages. The words of our correspondent appear to be perfectly just when he says that—"If a poor fellow commits a petty larceny without detection, the city treasury is taxed a hundred dollars as reward for his arrest, and he is tried, convicted and imprisoned within twenty-four hours." And this is undoubtedly right; any one should receive the penalty of his crime. Yet we see, that an assault has been committed, murderous in its intent, not only towards the despised Wide Awakes, but jeopardizing the lives of the women and children who line our sidewalks on such occasions, to satisfy the vengeance of these bloodthirsty knaves. We can assure the Mayor that we appreciate his good motives in this matter, but yet think that his exertions, or those of his police could be extended sufficiently to prevent a further occurrence of these or similar attacks.

Would it not be well to offer a reward for the detection of the offenders? We have seen several of our prominent citizens, who think it would, and who will volunteer to furnish the funds necessary if the City Treasury is in want of them, provided the reward is issued, as it should be, by the suitable authorities. Let us have some action in this matter at once, which will put a stop now and forever to these disgraceful assaults.

Diphtheria and its Cure.—Simple and Efficacious Remedy for the Disease.—In the early stages of the complaint, which is always accompanied by a soreness and swelling of the throat, let the patient use a simple solution of salt and water as a gargle, every fifteen minutes. At the same time moisten a piece of flannel with a solution of the same kind, made warm as the patient can bear it, and bind it around the throat, renewing it as often as the gargle is administered, and in the meanwhile sprinkling fluo salt between the flannel and the neck. Use inwardly some tonic or stimulant, either separately, or if the prostration be great, use both together. The treatment as may be seen, is extremely simple, and if used in the earlier stages of the disease, will effect a complete cure. Cincinnati Daily Press.

WIDE AWAKE POLITICS.

Go down to Rhode Island. We are opposed to a union with the State of Pennsylvania, a union which would strip and address a public good. The late Governor, president-elect, provided the state of his health will permit. Next to the pleasure which we Rhode Islanders have received from Mr. Curtis' recent brilliant victory will be that of welcoming him to our State and listening to his eloquence. Providence Journal.

The Wide Awakes.

The organization needs a more considerable diverse element in the Southern papers. The Memphis Enquirer says: "The Wide Awakes are composed mostly of the idle, the vicious, and those who have no other society. They would have much greater success in an assault upon the merchant princes, and upon the wealth of the North, than in a raid upon the South; and not only so, they would not doubt consider a division of property lying close at hand, more desirable to be made than a distant and hopeless expedition against the slave power."

Of the Wide Awakes' Demonstration in Washington.

The Wide Awakes' demonstration in Washington, the other side of the States says: "They were a fine looking set of men, very orderly and gentlemanly in their deportment. Several citizens who took accurate notice of them, came to the conclusion that they were strangers from other localities, who came here to participate, they recognizing only a few at the gas office, a court house under the U. S. marshal, an ex-assistant U. S. marshal, a master bricklayer, and one or two more of our citizens. We infer that none of them want any office in the event of the triumph of their party; they only want to stand by their long-cherished and time-honored principles of black republicanism and abolitionism."

The N. O. Delta does not quite like their presence in that city.

It says: "The appearance of a company of Wide Awakes, in the last two Bell-Verret processions has excited a good deal of remark in the community. The young gentlemen composing that company may be very patriotic people, and very good southerners, but a good many persons think that the adoption of a black republican uniform rather tends to obscure the light of such sentiments. It might be feared that those who go north for their fashions may be very apt to go north for their politics."

Alarmingly Intelligence.

Our Wide Awake friends will smile "audibly" when they read the following picture of their future, which according to the Washington Constitution is drawn by the Georgia Chronicle:—"These demonstrative Wide Awakes may yet, should the signal be given, commence a drunken bacchanal, to end in the wild orgies of blood, of carnage, lust and rapine. Let the North look well to herself. Let her guard her own interests. She is only nursing wrath, and the time may come much sooner than expected that these semi-military organizations, the sport of the hour, shall erect the guillotine, tear down the temples of justice, sack the city and the plain, and overturn society. We are free from all such dangers. It is the North that really is in peril if disunion come; let her reflect upon it, let her prepare for it, let her await it if she can while yet she may."

The Prince at Boston.

Boston was on Thursday last crowded with visitors. The hotels were overflowing. The weather was most propitious for the festivities. The Prince and his suite remained in their apartments in the morning. They received very cordially Ralph Farnham, the Bunker Hill hero, and had a long conversation with him. The Transcript says:

"The Duke of Newcastle asked Mr. Farnham if he saw Gen. Burgoyne at the time he surrendered? 'O yes,' said Mr. Farnham, 'and a brave officer he was, too.' But you got the best of him there," said the Duke. Mr. F. said that Burgoyne's supplies were cut off, and they were in a wretched condition.

In speaking to the Prince, Mr. Farnham said, "I hear so much in praise of the Prince of Wales that I fear the people will all turn royalists." The remark was received with much merriment.

The interview lasted about fifteen minutes, and was marked by the most cordial courtesy and good feeling. It was an interesting event to witness an old veteran of the revolution, 105 years of age, shaking hands with a prince whose great great grandfather was on the throne of England at the time he was born, and whose great great grandfather (Geo. III.) he contended against during the revolution.

Mr. Farnham said that, in common with all our countrymen, he desired to pay his respects to the Prince, to show that past animosities were forgotten, and hoped never to be revived. The Prince presented Mr. Farnham with his autograph.

At one o'clock the guests were escorted to the State House, where Gov. Banks made a short and felicitous address of welcome. The military review on the Common then followed. Then came the collation, then the gathering of the school children in Music Hall, and finally the ball.

PROF. CARL'S EXHIBITION Saturday evening, was a brilliant affair. His feats, and experiments are astonishing and truly wonderful. We have never seen such a combination of accomplishments in one man before. It must be seen to be believed and realized. As a Magician he cannot be beat—as a Ventriloquist he is above all—as a Balancer he is a master—in his Musical Solos he excels, and in feats of strength it is acknowledged he has no equal. Let all go to-night, and our word for it you will not regret it. It will probably be his last night at Aquidneck Hall.

N. R. Professor Carl informs us that, on account of the Wide Awake demonstration to-night, the exhibition will not commence until 8 o'clock.
